A JEWELLED SWORD.

Presented to Capt. Evans by an Iowa Delegation.

Services of the Brave Commander of Battleship Iowa During War Fittingly Remembered—Delegates the Honor is Due His Men.

Capt. Robley D. Evans, who commanded the battleship Iowa during the battle off Santiago, was the other night presented with a magnificent gold jeweled sword at Washington. It was the gift of the chamber of commerce of Des Moines, Ia., which requested the Iowa congressional delegation to make the presentation. Speaker Henderson made a happy speech of presentation, in which he made allusions to Capt. Evans' deeds of valor in the Spanish-American war as well as during the civil war, when he won his sobriquet of "Fighting Bob." Capt. Evans, in responding, said:

"Gentlemen of the Iowa Delegation: Making speeches, as you all probably know, is not my trade. I wish it were, for this occasion at least, that I might tell you in fitting words how grateful I am for the honor you have done me, and how entirely I appreciate the sentiment of those who have sent this sword. "The battleship named after your great commonwealth, and which, through the courtesy of the secretary of the navy, I had the honor to command during the Spanish war, was manned by 600 officers and men. They were as brave a band as ever fought for the dear old flag, and it was what they did that brings me this token of good will of your people. "As commander of the gallant crew of the Iowa, I accept this beautiful sword. You could not give a token to each of them, therefore this to me. They are scattered over the waters of the earth, but the heart of each will warm with pride and gratitude when he learns that one of their number has been so honored. I hope that some day the national congress will suitably recognize the gallant conduct of each of my comrades, and that the day may not be far distant. I beg you to convey to your people the expression of my heartfelt thanks and gratitude."

FILLS ELEVEN VOLUMES.

Report of the Recent Belgian Expedition Toward North Pole Being Published by the Government.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the arctic explorer, has just returned to New York from a visit to Belgium. In Brussels he attended a meeting of more than a hundred scientists interested in the recent Belgian expedition toward the north pole. All of them contributed something for the report of the venture being published by the Belgian government. "This report," said the explorer, "is the official record of the expedition, the story of which has already been published. There will be 11 volumes. One of them, contributed by me, contains a vocabulary of 30,000 words of the Yaghn language, the tongue of the inhabitants of Terra del Fuego. "Three antarctic expeditions are now being fitted out on the other side. The one from England will start in August, going south of Australia, and the German explorers are to start at about the same time. The Swedish expedition will leave that country later. "Dr. Cook is not going with any of them. He has been exploring for years and now means to rest. "Dr. Cook said that the Belgian government would present 30 sets of the report to various institutions in this country, among them Harvard and Yale.

By the quick wit of an Omaha fireman, Merrill, Wis., was the other day saved from destruction by fire. Flames started in a big hotel building, and as a high wind was blowing little could be done to stop their progress. Dynamite was used in an endeavor to check the fire, but the light debris only helped the blaze along. When it seemed as if the whole town would go the fireman of an Omaha freight train came to the rescue. Backing the engine on to a sidetrack, so as to get nearer to the burning buildings, he directed that heavy chains be attached to several of the wooden stores and then to his engine. Then he opened the throttle. Inside of ten minutes a big gap was left in the row, and the progress of the flames was stopped.

The underground system will be used in the center of the city and the overhead in the suburbs. The present lines are single track. The fare is five and six kopecks (20 and 30 cents) for inside seats and one kopeck (5 cents) less for outside or top seats.

MARKET DULL

In Spite of Large Transactions in Some Stocks.

By Associated Press. New York, March 11.—Today's stock market was dull in spite of large transactions and wide price movements in some individual stocks. The inertia of the general market in point of activity gave the whole a very spotty appearance. Professional operations were obviously responsible in a large degree for such dealings as occurred and for the manipulation which exaggerated the price movement. Where professional manipulation was not at work the day's movement was very sluggish. Of the day's special movements that in Burlington attracted the most attention.

U. S. refunding 2s advanced 1/2 and new 4s declined 1/2 per cent.
